Description

Enjoy the warm Mediterranean sun while staying at this typical Ischian retreat. There is a sprawling terrace that overlooks the dazzling bay of Naples. Enjoy cozy bedrooms and a large fireplace that create the perfect atmosphere anytime of the year. Features Description This unit is very cozy and furnished with plain furnishings, customary of most Ischian homes. There are two bedrooms, one with a double bed and one with a single bed. The kitchen is spacious and offers an oven. The living area is relaxing, and there is one bathroom that features a shower. Access to a washing machine is available at no extra charge. Surrounding Description Dine on the huge terrace overlooking the gulf of Naples after a long day of exploring the exquisite island. This retreat offers a BBQ. This apartment is centrally located, but it is best to rent a car during your stay. Nearby Attractions Description The island is small and easy to explore. There are a number of small villages nestled among trees and farmland. Ischia is part of a large volcanic area that was active in the distant past. The island boasts a multitude of thermal springs and parks famed to heal and restore through the properties of the hot gushing waters. The sulfuric waters spring out of the earth from dozens of places all over the island and can be enjoyed from public springs or private thermal gardens.

Ischia in a nutshell:

Ischia is the largest Island in the Gulf of Naples. It is also called the Green Island, because of its wonderful vegetation and its woods that in certain areas grow right near the coast line. Ischia has always been a "must see" because of its long sunny and sandy beaches and its very pleasant climate all year round. It is the only place in Italy where you can swim all year round even in winter!!! The reason is that Ischia is an island of volcanic origin, and some of its hot water springs are in the sea, just a few meters from the shore !!! When in Ischia, be sure not to miss its most beautiful beaches (Maronti, Cetara, Ischia Porto, Castiglione and Poseidon Garden Beach), and to experience the very unusual Water Taxis, that can take you to secluded beaches. You should also enjoy one of the mini cruises with several daily departures, that will take you on a boat tour along the Islands' beaches. The southern part of Ischia offers particularly incredible panoramas and innumerable thermal treatment centres, well known also to the Ancient Romans. The Village of Serrara Fontana is the highest of the Island, and from its Belvedere, the breathtaking panorama you can admire is incomparable.

At the end of the day, after enjoying swimming in the warm Mediterranean Sea waters, and long hours spent sunbathing, one can either decide to dine on the terrace while enjoying the splendid sea view, or chose to dine out at one of the many restaurants of the island, and enjoy day-fresh sea food and the exquisite traditional Italian cuisine, and taste one of the round body wines Italy is famous for.
